New One-Stop Business For Seniors

SENIORS FINALLY HAVE a community and business center dedicated to their specific needs.

One Senior Place in Viera hosted its grand opening April 19 to 22 debuting a new one-stop shopping concept for senior services.

Owner Don Kramer has long catered to seniors through his business Senior Partner Care Services.

"When you're dealing with health care and other critical issues, the choices can be overwhelming," he says.

To meet these elders' needs he created a beautiful new 13,000-square-foot center where seniors can get the vital information they should have, and vendors serving seniors can have resident offices.

One Senior Place offers free elder-care management consultation for seniors and their family members. When the center's elder-care managers determine the level of care required, they can be contracted to assist seniors and/or make needed referrals.

The organizations and business professionals represented at the center include an attorney, tax advisor, financial planner and mortgage company. A home health-care agency, assisted-living facility and hospice care provider are also on hand.

The center also functions as a community center, offering meeting rooms and a snack bar for senior events and recreation. The library at One Senior Place is chock full of free information on area nonprofit resources and health topics.

"We want to be a real resource for the senior community," Kramer says.
